Remarkable Surgery.

The science of surgery has made such wonderful progress in mourn times that the most intricate and delicate operations are now undertaken and carried to a successful issue. There are now several well authenticated cases of what is known as passumotony, that is to say, the removal of discased portions of the lungs in cases of consumption. While, however, this delicate operation has sometimes been successfully performed, the risks attending it are so great, and the chances of recovery so sight, that it is seldom resorted to. The safest plan in consumptive cases is to use Dr. Pirance's Golden Maddoll Discoverny. This will always cure the discase in the earlier stages, thoroughly arresting the Tavages of the terrible malady by removing its cause and healing the lungs. Remarkable Surgery.

Secretary F. O. Prince and Treasurer Conda, of the National Convention, arrived this morning in a special train on the Vandalia.

Among the delegates now here the Vice Presidency is the all-absorbing topic, there being but one name heard, or even thought of for the head of the ticket.

The situation in regard to second place as summed up by the Republic this morning, is as follows: as follows:

Thurman can have the nomination if he will take it; Black will have a very faitoring following, especially from the South; Morrison will be a favorite of the true blues; if Turman positively declines (fray will have an immense following, eccempanted by bitter opposition from Indiana. Roger, Q. Mille will receive a nice complimentary vale and Hearst, of California, is a very promising dark horse.

Its Application to Establish Storage Oil Tunks Deuted This Morning.

The application of the Standard Oil mocopoly for permission to store explosive oils in their tanks in East One Hundred and Fifteenth street was denied by the Fire Commissioners this morning.

Commissioner Croker, who had the matter in hand, reported that in conferring with the Board of Fire Underwriters the unanimous opinion was that the hazard of trans-porting the oil through the harbor and the additional danger of storing it in the tanks additional danger of storing it in the tanks was too great.

Prof. Henry Morton, of the Hoboken Institute of Technology, also rendered a report, in which he states that the company would need at least 13,500 gallons of naphtha per day for their works, and that vessels would have to be continually passing to and fro in the harbor to keep up the supply.

THE NEW GERMAN MINISTER.

Herr Graf Arco Valley, recently appointed German Minister at Washington, arrived here this morning on the North German Lloyd steamship Lahn, from Bremen and Southampton. Count Arco is one of the most distinguished nen of the German Empire, and his appointment is considered as another manifestation of Germany's friendly disposition towards this country. He is a Bayarian, and head of or Germany's friendly disposition towards this country. He is a Bavarian, and head of one of the great Bavarian families. In German diplomatic circles he is held in high esteem, both for his high character and great ability. He was Secretary to the Ger-man Legation at Washington in 1871, and has held similar positions in all the European cavitals.

THE KERR JURY STILL OUT.

All Night Was Not Enough Time to Make a Verdict.

With their question as to what sort of eviience they must have that the $500,000 raised by the Broadway and Seventh avenue railway officers had been used for bribing the boodle combine, answered by Justice Patterson in approved, colorless court style, the Kerr jury retired at 10.30 last night with instructions to hold in abeyance the fate of the now exceedingly anxious and apprehensive defendant until 10.30 this morn-prehensive defendant until 10.30 this morning.

They had lived at the expense of the county for two weeks, the Metropolitan Hotel being their domicile. They had proven themselves to be a dozen jolly good fellows, and had got a heap of fun out of the imprisonment which the performance of the gravest duty of citizenship entails.

Even the idea of spending twenty-four hours in the chamber of the Special Session of the Supreme Court, barren save for unarmed chairs and two or three desks, provoked nothing but good humor, by Juror O'Sullivan's cracking a next joke to the effect that the heads of the twelve American sovereigns would be obliged to suffer that uneasiness said to be the lot of those which wear growns.

eigns would be obliged to suffer that uneasiness said to be the lot of those which wear crowns.

There was a good deal of talk, the minimum of which passed through the deal doors of the chamber to the two sentinels posted in the corridor until midnight. Then silence hovered over the place, and it was evident that the jurors had decided to sleep.

They were up again bright and early this morning, and for an hour there was a buzzing of twelve tongues inside. The only symptom of its purport came at 7 o'clock, in an order for a dozen breakfasts, and at 7.30 four trenchers from the Astor House, laden with chops, coffee and rolls passed in to the peers of Thomas B. Kerr.

Silence reigned again after breakfast and Officer Jule Arnoid, sitting at the door, heard nothing more than an occasional uplifting of a voice in laughter.

Friends of Mr. Kerr, inquiring and receiving this information, went away to argue with themselves on the meaning of this apparent agreement.

with themselves on the meaning of this apparent agreement.

Last night when the jury retired it was insisted by those friends that there would be an early verdict of acquittal. When the jury returned to court for instruction they were sure it would be a disagreement. Now, had they agreed or only disagreed?

Kerr. whose wife lie serrously ill, was placed in the custody of Under Sheriff Sexton and Order of Arrest Clerk Martin, when the jury retired, and went to his sick wife's bedside with all the doubtful cheer he could take to her.

When the hour for the assembling of court had arrived the chamber was crowded.

When the hour for the assembling of court had arrived the chamber was crowded.

Kerr's brother, Harrison D. Kerr, sat in a retired corner, his face full of anxiety.

Kerr, closely followed by his young son and supported by Dr. Samuel Hall, entered court at exactly 10,25. He was guarded by the Sheriff's deputies.

At 11 o'clock there was not even standing-room in the chamber.

It was 11.10 o'clock when Capt, Billy Ricketts rapped loudly with his knuckles on the private door, to the chamber and shouted sternly: "Hats off in Court!"

Justice Patterson entered the room, and there was a general clearing of throats in court, the usual proceeding when something interesting is expected; but the jury did not follow. The Justice, ex-Judge Davis, Mr. Cockran and Col. Fellows joined in a chat over the rail on the desk of the Court for a short time, and then Justice Patterson left the court-room again.

Justice Patterson sent in word that he should not return to the court chamber until

He was not needed then, as it proved, and at 1.45 the jury was still in disagreement in Lunch was sent in to the jurors from the Astor House soon after noon and very leisurely eaton. Then again they deliberated and at 2.20 they were still in their room, giv-

MAHLER'S MARITAL MISCHANCES.

A New York Wife, a Jersey City Betrethed, and a Lonely Coll.

Last October Fred Mahler and Berthe Rush were both boarders at the home of Bertha's sister, Mrs. Martha Moretz, 38 Sussex street, Jersey City. They fell in love, became engaged and set June 10 as the date of their marriage. Mahler then went South for the winter and Miss Rush journeyed to Germany to visit relatives.

In April both returned to Jersey City and the house in Sussex street. Mahler bought furniture and fitted up rooms preparatory to the wedding. A jeweller's services were sought, rings fitted and everything arranged happily.
Yesterday afternoon Frederick started for a walk and met two friends. They told him that Margaret Mayer, a young woman living at 245 West One Hundredth and Twenty-fifth that Margaret Mayer, a young woman sving at 245 West One Hundredth and Twenty-fifth street, New York, one of his former sweethearts, had been told of the approaching nuprials and was at that moment in Justice Geiger's office on Washington street obtaining a warrant for his arrest.

Fright and beer worked so strongly on Frederick's mind that he rushed to the Justice's office, met Miss Mayer, and offered to marry her then and there.

She accepted, and the Justice tied the knot. An hour later the prospective bride in Sussex street heard the news. She rushed off to Justice Weed's office, and, tearfully telling her story, asked that Mahler be arrested, as he had betrayed her also under his promise of marriage.

In an hour Mahler was in the toils, with his new wife weeping at the home of a friend on WASHINGTON, June 1.-Gen. Sheridan's condition has not materially changed since daybreak, though he is steadily growing weaker. The following is the 8.30 A. M. bulletin:

Gen. Sheridan has held his own through the night. There has been no recurrence of imminent danger, but his general condition still justifies the gravest anxiety.

Dr. Pepper, of Philadelphia, reached the residence of Gen. Sheridan at 6 o'clock this morning. His diagnosis of the case gives no encouragement; in fact, it increases the alarm. There had been no change in the General's condition at noon. At 4 o'clock there was no material change.

To THE EVENING WORLD correspondent he said: "The General's condition is grave but not hopeless. He is desperately ill and another attack of heart failure, such as that of yesterday, might prove fatal. It was the worst he has had thus far. The builetin issued this morning states the case very clearly and had my full approval.

"The physicians he has are able and they are battling manfully to save him again. If there is anything to be gained by the patient's fortitude it will be gained, for the General is very courageous and is himself aiding the doctors in every way in his power."
